

Bio – Brian D. White

In 2004, Brian received his Bachelor of Laws, with distinction, from the University of Western Ontario and was awarded the David C. Scott Memorial Award for high academic achievement and outstanding contribution. After graduating, he articulated with the London Crown Attorney's Office and was subsequently hired after his call to the Bar in 2005. Since joining the Ministry, Brian has participated in two major case prosecutions with the OPP's Biker Enforcement Unit. Project Retire was a province-wide arrest of more than 50 members and associates of the Outlaws Motorcycle Gang. Brian was also on the Project Octagon prosecution team. Project Octagon was one of the largest mass murders in Canadian history and is known worldwide as "The Bandidos Massacre".

In addition to work in the courtroom, Brian has presented across North America on various legal issues including expansive use of technology in litigation, impaired driving, high risk offender matters, and ethics & professionalism. During his time with the Ministry of the Attorney General, Brian has received 5 awards recognizing excellence in Innovation [x2], Teamwork [x2] and Outstanding Achievement. Brian is also one of the four founding course directors for the Ontario Crown Attorney's Association educational program entitled Technology in Litigation. This course provides training to prosecutors on the use of technology to prepare their case and, through innovation, enhance the impact and comprehension of trial evidence. In his spare time, Brian has spent the last several years working with Western University's Pre-Law Society by assisting with their annual moot court competition.
